SEVEN-ROOM AND BATH HOUSE
COULD NOT HELP BUT ATTRACT

Picturesque is the word which fitly describes this modern, up-to-date seven-room-and-bath cottage, for no house with such an artistic gabled roof fail to be that. Surrounded by a number of stately old trees and set amid a well kept lawn, the house shown today is one that will attract attention from passers-by generally. As shown here, it is constructed of frame, with drop siding to the sill course and shingles dipped in creosote stain. The roof also is shingled and stained a harmonious color.

One of the first impressions gained of this house is its roominess and air of substantial well being. Passing through the porch, one enters directly into a wide hall, from which the stairway ascends. On the right is the living room with its cheery fireplace. At the extreme end of this room is an arched doorway through which one glimpses the sun parlor—an altogether delightful room if furnished in wicker or bamboo, with gay chintz or cretonne coverings and hangings to match, and with plenty of growing plants and blooming flowers adding fragrance and color. On the left side of the house are the dining room, kitchen and service porch. The kitchen is modernly equipped so that the housewife without a maid will find household duties reduced to the minimum. This story is finished in Washington fir, natural. The bathroom and four large closets are found on the second floor, which is finished in Washington fir, natural. The bathroom is larger than the usual sized bathroom, and the closet in it will be found convenient for storing linen and bed clothes. This house is heated by a hot-air furnace, and it has a full and complete basement with laundry, furnace and electric lights. The first story has oak floors and the second has birch floors. The estimated cost of this cottage, which is 30 feet wide by 24 feet deep, is placed as between $1,000 and $5,000, exclusive of plumbing and heating.

THE WEEK

Epitome of Events Up to January 1, 1921.

FOREIGN.

Kerensky is charged with a plot to restore the monarchy in Germany and Russia and reunite the Austro-Hungarian empire. Canada threatens to revise tariff to meet that of the United States if emergency tariff bill is passed. Arabs and Turks drive French back in Syria and push plans for a drive against the Greeks. Albania is shaken by earthquake. Uster raises armed police force to be sent against the Sinn Feiners. London newspapers endorse pact between America, Great Britain and Japan to curb naval building. Italians enter Fiume and D'Annunzio surrenders powers to the local communal council, leaving the city by airplane, and is expected to go to South America. Germans affirm inability to disband the civil guards in Bavaria and East Prussia, according to peace treaty demands, and French threaten to occupy the Ruhr district in January in accord with the terms of the Spa convention.

NATIONAL.

Secretary Houston testifies that a soldier's bonus bill would cost the government $2,300,000. Henry C. Wallace, editor of a farm journal in Des Moines, Iowa, is picked for agriculture post in Harding's cabinet, and Charles E. Hughes, secretary of state, and Will H. Hays as Postmaster General, practically are decided upon. President Wilson celebrates his 66th birthday anniversary. "Monk" Eastman, ex-Bowery gang leader and war hero, killed in New York as crime wave continues. Secretary of State Colby reaches Uruguay on the U. S. S. Florida and is given a rousing greeting in Montevideo. House of Representatives felicitates "Uncle Joe" Cannon as he breaks long service record in the House, having served 43 years and almost 10 months. President Wilson announces he will receive the Year's reception at the White House. The President appoints Col. George C. Rickards chief of the militia bureau of the War Department. Senator Harding confers with Senator Knox, Will H. Hays and E. B. McLean on arrangements for the inauguration. Americans win the tennis championship of the world and the Davis Cup when William T. Tilden and William R. Johnston triumph over the Australians, Norman Brookes and Gerald Patterson, at Auckland, New Zealand, in both singles and doubles. The Cornell cross-country team loses to the Oxford-Cambridge team by the score of 25-29, on a heavy course at Roshampton, near London. George B. Christian, Jr., Senator from the Central High School, dies from heart trouble. District raises $60,000 in first few days of Herbert Hoover's campaign for the starving children of Europe. Dr. Richard Kingman, prominent homeopathic physician, dies.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

President's private yacht, U. S. S. Mayflower, is badly damaged by fire at the navy yard. District Commissioners submit additional estimates amounting to $5,063,300 to the Senate subcommittee in charge of the District appropriation bill. Public utilities commission rejects application of the Washington Railway and Electric Company for a straight 8 cent fare and orders a reduction from 2 to 1 cent for inter-company transfers. Henry Lansburgh is re-elected illustrious Potomac of the year. "Chimes of Normandy," a romantic comic opera, presented by the People's National Opera Society at the Central High School, scores a great success. Almas Temple of the Mystic Shrine plays Santa Claus to 400 children and takes presents to many poor homes. The American Historical Association with five affiliated societies hosts its annual convention at the Hotel Hamilton. Charles J. O'Neill is elected grand master of Masons of the District. Rev. Levi M. Powers, pastor of the Church of Our Father, dies from heart trouble. District raises $60,000 in first few days of Herbert Hoover's campaign for the starving children of Europe. Dr. Richard Kingman, prominent homeopathic physician, dies.

RED MEN ARE HOSTS.

Sioux Tribe, No. 18, Improved Order of Red Men, was host Thursday evening at a Christmas entertainment, when the families of the chiefs were recipients of gifts from Santa Claus. More than 200 little guests, sons and daughters of the members of the tribe, were called up to the monster Christmas tree, which was adorned with presents. The committee in charge of the Christmas entertainment included East Sacem Jacques Heldenheimer, Henry Gompers, Albert Gompers, Maj. Eckalls, Harry Lewis, Henry Greenberg and Edward S. Schmie.

FORESEES A BETTER
BUILDING SITUATION

The present low ebb of the building situation marks the turn of the tide with the closing days of the year, in the opinion of S. W. Straus, banker, of New York.

While admitting that the general housing shortage is no less alarming now than it was a year ago, Mr. Straus declares that the period has witnessed progress toward stabilization and that with the coming of seasonable weather in the spring, the long-awaited activity may be inaugurated, in the course of time restoring normal housing conditions.

More Stabilized Conditions.

"Labor and transportation conditions are improving," he asserts. "These are factors of great potential significance in an analysis of building tendencies. With their continued improvement will come a more stabilized market for materials which will exert an encouraging influence upon capital. Prior to the war income from improved property in many localities and instances was too low, and it is noted that a more favorable and apparently permanent readjustment of income from improved real estate investments is taking place."

"Thus, while construction is at a low ebb at this time, fundamental conditions are favorable for the resumption of building on a large scale. It should be borne in mind that lasting improvement can be brought about in the housing situation only as these basic conditions are favorable. Unfair agitation and overdrastic legislative restrictions tend to divert capital from building investments to other channels, and thus have a harmful effect on the housing situation."

Value of Home Ownership.

Mr. Straus points out that particular impetus should be given to home building and home ownership, "which constitutes one of the most substantial and profitable of investments."

The law of supply and demand is the final determining factor in the situation, and every rightful influence, therefore, that will encourage more building should be exerted," he declares.

It is estimated that 100,000,000 women can vote in the world today.

LEAP YEAR RECORD HERE.

7,035 Licenses to Wed Issued in Capital in 1920.

Leap year 1920 established a new record of marriages in the National Capital. Dan Cupid and his lieutenant, Col. W. A. Kroll, the license clerk, are justly proud of the year's business. At the opening of the clerk's office yesterday there had been issued 7,025 licenses, and the outlook was for a busy day to wind up the year's work. On the last day of 1919 a total of 6,500 licenses were issued, and if there is any ground to believe that the year's total for 1920 will approach 7,000 licenses. Already the previous year's business has been exceeded by nearly 500 licenses and last year held the record for activity.

There is, however, one disappointment to Cupid and his assistant as they view the record of the past year. It is the fact that ninety licenses were canceled during the last three months. This is two or three times, it is said, the number ever returned in a previous year.

BALTIMORE BREAD LOWER.

Three Bakeries Announce Reduced
Prices Beginning Next Week.

BALTIMORE, Md., January 1 (Special).—Although the 5-cent loaf of bread cannot return for the present, owing chiefly, the bakers say, to high cost of labor, substantial reductions in the price of the staff of life next week were announced by three Baltimore bakeries today.

One bakery will make a reduction of 20 per cent, bringing its potato loaf, which has been selling at 10 cents, down to 8 cents, and the pound-and-a-half loaf, now sold at 15 cents, to 12 cents.

The second bakery will make practically the same cut in prices, while the third firm announces that while it will not change prices, it "will give more bread for the same money after the first of the year." This bakery is now selling a twelve-ounce loaf for 7 cents and next week will give thirteen and one-half ounces for 7 cents.

Has Found It a Good Business Proposition to Sell His House and Buy Here

Wise men are selling old houses in neighborhoods that have served their purpose and buying these NEW, DISTINCTIVE HOMES in this GROWING SECTION.

A WORD TO THE WISE IS SUFFICIENT.

Further, this home is the most remarkable value seen in Washington in years.

It has set a standard for future building operations.

Remember this: Even though it has 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, an unfinished third floor (room for two extra rooms), library, dining room and kitchen and an extra room on main floor, one clubroom, a lot 40x160, and an exterior design by Arthur B. Heaton, the price is exactly $450 more than that of row houses.
